

Donald K. Hill

With profound sadness, the Thurgood Marshall School of Law announces the passing of Professor Donald Kenneth Hill on August 23, 2007. The law school notes Professor Hill's contributions as a student, a faculty member, a faculty leader, a judge, and an academic administrator.

Professor Hill graduated, first in his class, from this law school in 1967 and went on to Yale University School of Law, where he graduated in 1970.

For the past 34 years, Professor Hill taught several courses at Thurgood Marshall. They include: Anti-Trust, Administrative Law, Contracts, Remedies, Regulated Industries, Law and National Security, and Energy Law.

Professor Hill also held several administrative appointments. They include the following: Associate Judge - Houston Municipal Courts; Associate Dean - Thurgood Marshall School of Law; Director - Mickey Leland Center and World Peace and Hunger; Director - Black Studies, University of Toledo; Director - Texas Southern University School of Law Legal Clinic; Chairperson - Texas Southern University Faculty Senate / Assembly; Legal Counsel - Texas Southern University Faculty Senate / Assembly; Member - Governor Mark White's Transition Committee, Governor of Texas.

Professor Donald K. Hill, a man of unparalleled passion, will be greatly missed by the law school community.

The law school will host a service for Professor Hill in the moot court area beginning at 11 AM on Tuesday, April, 2007.
