Text: Dukeminier et al., Property: Concise Edition (2d Edition, Aspen 2017).

Assignments: We will cover Parts IV and V of the Text during the Spring Semester. Unless otherwise announced or posted, please read and be prepared to discuss approximately 20-25 pages from the casebook, beginning from the point at which the previous class ended.

Coverage: We will cover the following topics, as set forth in the Dukeminier Concise Edition casebook. Refer to the casebook Table of Contents for further information.

- Spring Semester
 - Land Transactions: Contracts, Deeds, & Finance
 - Title Assurance: Recording & Insurance
 - Nuisance
 - Servitudes: Easements & Covenants
 - Zoning

Attendance: Regular attendance is required in accordance with ABA and law school policy. I will contact you if attendance becomes an issue.

Participation: Participation in classroom discussion is required of students who are called on. Participation of others is encouraged. Professionalism in the classroom is expected at all times.

Assessment & Grading: Final grades for the course will be calculated the end of the spring semester as follows: 50% from Class Exams; and 50% from the Comprehensive Exam

- Comprehensive Exam: to be administered to all first-year sections at the end of the full school year. See Comprehensive Exam disclosure statement.
- Class Exams: four exams will be given to the Section during the year: two in the Fall and two in the Spring. The first exam will be given during midterm week on the Fall calendar. Additional information on these exams will be provided.
- Spring Semester: the Spring examination schedule will be as follows:
 - Midterm exam: essay format, during Midterm Week, 40% of semester grade.
 - Fall Final exam: multiple choice, during Finals Week, 60% of semester grade

Learning Objectives

1. Identify Property law issues that arise from events or transactions in real and personal property;
2. Invoke in writing the pertinent rule of law associated with that issue;
3. Analyze in writing these events or transactions, explaining the likely legal solution;
4. Articulate the evolution and historical development of Property law from feudal to modern times;

5. Apply the abstract concepts of the possessory estates and future interests to various concrete real-world problems;
6. Advocate for and against the proper application and desirability of a rule of Property law on the basis of efficiency and fairness.
7. Differentiate on the basis of granting language the various possessory estates, futures interests, leasehold estates, and concurrent estates.
