YOUR PERSONAL HOME PAGE

Start your research or resume your work from your customized workspace. As you read eBooks, take notes and add personal tags, your home page populates.

- A. Search bar enables you to find eBooks by title, author or practice area within your collection.
- B. Recently read eBook titles appear front and center for quick access.
- C. My annotations shows you the most recent eBooks in which you have added notes and highlights. To view all annotations, click the Go to my annotations link or My Annotations in the left navigation bar.
- D. My tags displays all titles you have tagged for easy access.
- E. Home brings you back to the main page.
- F. Browse library allows you to view curated collections, sort by relevance or browse by filter.
- G. My books shows your history as well as shared, expiring and downloaded titles, plus those on hold, when applicable.
- H. Export queue makes it easy to view all selected annotations and select and export passages.
- I. My account includes features like download settings, help and sign out.

The screenshot displays the LexisNexis Digital Library interface. On the left is a navigation sidebar with icons and labels: Home (E), Browse library (F), My books (G), My annotations (C), Export queue (H), and My tags (D). The main content area is divided into several sections:

- Search bar (A): Located at the top, it contains the text "Find a book by title, author, practice area, etc." and a red "SEARCH" button.
- My account (I): A dropdown menu icon in the top right corner.
- Recently read (B): A section showing four eBook covers with their titles, editions, release dates, and "LAST OPENED" timestamps. The books are: "Questions & Answers Intellectual Property", "New York Civil Practice Law and Rules Redbook", "Chisum on Patents Volume 1", and "Moore's Federal Civil Volume".
- My annotations (C): A section showing a list of annotations created by the user, including titles like "New York Civil Practice Law and Rules Redbook" and "Questions & Answers: Constitutional Law", along with their creation dates.
- My tags (D): A section on the right showing a list of tags added by the user, such as "New York", "color books", "Project ID 5051-C", "Jones Contract", "Client 67-530A", "Bankruptcy", and "Smith v Jones".

LEARN ABOUT YOUR TITLES

Select an eBook to learn more about its author, edition and release date. Use the table of contents view to open the title to a specific section... making your research more efficient.

From this page you can also copy a title link to share with another researcher in your organization, add a personal tag to organize eBooks of interest by project ID or topic, or search a single eBook or its entire set before opening it.

READING THE eBook

Click Read to begin reading the title. Add annotations, navigate via the table of contents, and much more. Blue links take you to locations inside the book, and green links connect you to cases and statutes on the Lexis+™ or Lexis® service.* Use My annotations page while on the digital library home screen to access and sort your notes quickly- without opening the eBook.

The screenshot shows the LexisNexis digital library interface. At the top, there is a search bar with the text "Find a book by title, author, practice area, etc." and a "SEARCH" button. Below the search bar, the title "Moore's Federal Practice" is displayed in large, bold letters, followed by "Volume 2". The authors are listed as "AUTHOR Professor Daniel R. Coquillette, Gregory P. Joseph, Esq., Sol Schreiber, Esq., J. Georgene M. Vairo, Moore's Board of Editors". To the left of the title, there is a thumbnail image of the book cover. Below the title, there is a "Table of contents" section with a "Expand all" and "Collapse all" link. The table of contents lists "Cover", "Prefatory Material", and "Volume 2. Analysis: Civil Rules 7-12". Below the table of contents, there is a "Description" section, a "Details" section, a "Subjects" section, a "Volumes" section showing "39", and a "Prior releases" section. At the bottom left, there is a "Copy title link" button and a URL "https://lexisdl.com/library/lexis...". A red "READ" button is also visible.

The screenshot shows the LexisNexis digital library interface displaying the text of a legal document. The document is titled "[4] Amending an Election to Invoke Admiralty or Maritime Jurisdiction". The text discusses the procedural consequences for a case that could be either within or outside admiralty and maritime jurisdiction under Rule 9(h), the initial choice is not irrevocable. The designation may be amended in accordance with Rule 15, which provides that leave to amend shall be given freely unless prejudice will result. The court has discretion in determining whether to grant leave to amend. Leave to amend a complaint to remove the Rule 9(h) designation in order to have a jury trial will be denied if the court finds prejudice to the defendant. The text also mentions that once a claimant has demanded a jury and has not designated a claim as one in admiralty, some, but not all, courts have held the demand may not be withdrawn without abiding by Rule 39(a), requiring all parties to stipulate to a withdrawal of a jury demand. The text is annotated with blue links and green links. A sidebar on the left shows a "Table of Contents" and a "Supplemental Rules for Admiralty or Maritime Claims and Asset Forfeiture Actions" section. The bottom of the screen shows the page number "23 Moore's Federal Practice - Civil (9/09/14) (2019)" and a link to "Volume 2, Ch. 9, § 19.09, c. [1]".
