1. Get an application for Independent Research from Mrs. Johnson in the Dean's Area, on Dean Mouton's TWEN website for Independent Research, or download this form, fill out and submit as directed.
2. Get a written approval of a tenured or tenure track supervising faculty member to write a research paper under his/her supervision for the semester. The paper must be equivalent in scope to a Law Review article of at least 20 double spaced typewritten pages, excluding the cover, table of contents, footnotes, and Table of Authorities, written on a topic of your choice.
3. Submit the written application for Independent Research with your signature and your supervising faculty member's signature. Attach an exhaustive outline for the paper. (Refer to the first reading assignment in Scholarly Writing for Law Students, Chapters 1-4. The book is required for this course and may be purchased in the university bookstore or wherever law books are sold. Good examples of acceptable outlines are on pp. 85-87).
4. Get Dean Mouton's written approval to register for this course.
5. Register for the course during the registration period. You will need to contact Mrs. Johnson to register, as this is a closed enrollment course.

GENERAL GUIDELINES

1. No student will be allowed to register for Law 802 or Law 803 who:
 - a. has an unfinished paper in a course in which an “I” is pending
 - b. Does not have a grade of “C” or better in any course that is a foundation course for the paper.
 - c. Does not have written approval of the supervising professor.
 - d. Does not have written approval of Dean Mouton.
 - e. Has not completed Appellate Litigation.
2. A student must first enroll in Law 802, Independent Research I in one semester before he/she can register in Law 803 Independent Research II.
3. A student may enroll in Law 803, Independent Research II, only after having successfully completed Law 802 with a minimum grade of “B”.
4. If a student enrolls in Law 803, the student must show that the proposed paper is substantially different from the work done by the student in Law 802, even if the topics are related.
5. The student must submit an exhaustive outline of the proposed paper to the supervising professor.
6. The supervising professor must be teaching in, or have competence in, the general area of the proposed student research.
7. The supervising professor and student must meet at least monthly to discuss progress of the paper.
8. The student must submit the completed paper to his supervising professor and submit a duplicate copy to Dean Mouton’s office on the date the paper is due for submission. Dean Mouton’s office will verify that the paper has met minimum page requirements, minimum footnote requirements, as well as other format requirements. The supervising professor will grade the substantive requirements of the paper and submit a grade to Dean Mouton on or before grades are due to be submitted.

SUMMER 2015 SYLLABUS

This class is designed to give students an opportunity to research a legal topic and write a law review quality paper under the guidance of a tenured or tenure track professor. The student and professor will decide on a topic and develop an outline that the student will use to conduct research and write a paper. As coordinator of the guided researches, the instructor will conduct a series of classes to discuss the skills the students will use in writing their papers and consult with the students regarding the technical requirements of producing a quality paper. Substantive materials will not be discussed.
