Focus on Library Services

During one of the busiest periods in the academic calendar (Fall Semester), Harris County issued a stay home work safe order for all non-essential workplaces to help fight the spread of COVID-19. Operating in accordance with the Harris County order, Texas Southern University and more specifically Thurgood Marshall School of Law started the semester virtually and classes resumed in a hybrid setting for the remainder of the fall semester.

Due to the pandemic (COVID-19), the Law Library is only open to current faculty, students, and staff. We will remain CLOSED to the public at this time. We are open for in-person study during regular hours. Books in the general collection can be checked out for 30 days. Reserve books are not available at this time.

Library Access

The main entrance is the only point of access to the library. Face masks must be worn by all patrons. Building capacity has been reduced to approximately 40% in order to maintain social distancing standards. There is 1 seat available at each table, at every other study carrel and in each study room. The seating capacity in the computer labs is 8. The total seating capacity of the library at this time is 145 seats, 33 on the first floor and 112 in the basement.

Upon entry to the library there is a sign in sheet at the Circulation Desk that patrons must fill out in order to use the facility. Access to the library after hours is strictly prohibited.

Reference and Circulation

The Circulation Desk is staffed during all hours of library operation. Library staff members are available to answer questions and circulate library materials. Contact the Circulation Desk at: 713-313-7125.

The Reference Desk is staffed by a Librarian during reference hours to assist with all your research needs. Contact the Reference Desk at: 713-313-1108. Reference Librarians are available at the Reference Desk or on call to assist students with their research/ information needs. Students are encouraged to meet with a reference librarian before starting a research project to obtain advice on how to begin their research and to learn what library services are available. Reference Librarians also can deliver lectures on introductory and advanced legal research topics and instruct patrons in the use of all types of electronic information. Reference librarians do not provide legal advice or interpret legal materials.

Lexis Digital Library (LDL)

LDL provides access to a variety of resources, including legal eBooks, national treaties, practice materials, and more. For students, LDL is an excellent resource for study aids such as the Questions & Answers, Mastering, Skills & Value, and Understanding Series. LDL supports mobile devices so that you can access its products anytime, anywhere.

The Digital Library offers access to more than 3,800 LexisNexis titles, books from other legal publishers, as well as titles from the OverDrive Marketplace™, including audiobooks, digital eBooks and videos. The Digital Library is used by attorneys, law students, law librarians, judges, library patrons and other legal researchers at federal and state court libraries, large law firms, law schools, federal and state agencies, and public law libraries.

LDL offers the industry's most comprehensive collection of legal resources and supporting materials in digital format, including the largest number of legal-topic ebooks anywhere.
